Wedding of Miss Elizabeth Allen.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Wall Allen, of Millersburg, to Hon. Jesse M. Alverson, of Frankfort, was solemnized at the beautiful home of the bride Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The stately old mansion on Forest Hill never looked lovelier than on this occasion.

At the appointed hour the musicians played the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin" to herald the coming, and down the winding stairway the attendants came slowly in couples. First Mr. Henry B. Lawrence, of Cadiz, and Mrs. C. W. Kirkpatrick, of Mt. Sterling; Judge J. M. Lassing, of Newport, and Miss Gertrude, Sleadd, of Shelbyville; Judge William F. Dowling, of Lawrenceburg, and Miss Sallie Taylor Woods, of Stanford.

Then came the bride with the bridegroom, following through the double drawing rooms to the altar, where the beautiful ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. E. Ellis, of Cynthiana.

The bride is one of Kentucky's most charming girls, and was beautiful in her exquisite gown of white chiffon over satin with trimmings of real lace and pearls. Her short veil was caught gracefully in her hair with orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a handsome pearl necklace, the gift of the groom, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies and roses.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick, the matron of honor, was handsome in pale blue marquisette over satin entrain, with penel of point lace and pearl and trimmings. Miss Woods wore a beautiful gown of blue chiffon over satin entrain. Miss Sleadd, pink chiffon over satin with ermine trimmings entrain.—Lexington Herald.

The bride is quite well-known in this city and is very popular, having often been the attractive guest of Mrs. C. W. Kirkpatrick.

TALK ELEVEN.

How things change! Most everybody can remember when Life Insurance wasn't understood! It was a good deal like the Good Samaritan, for he who had been fallen upon by thieves didn't know, when the Samaritan first came along, whether it was for his good, or additional ill.

At first men looked upon paying out for something to be derived in the dim future as rather risky business. And so 'twas, when Life Insurance was in its infancy, (and so 'tis now, for that matter, in a good many companies). Ah, but since stable principles have been adopted, stable legislative enactment protecting the same from malfeasance, sound men placed at the head of a sound company—is it any wonder Hoffman wants to talk with you about it?

Now shift the boot! Is there any reason why you should not want to talk with him? If you've no insurance; if you've insurance you oughtn't to have because it's not the proper sort; if you haven't that security you believe you have; and if those whom you wish to benefit will not participate in what you are paying that they should, then "Talk with Hoffman."

LECTURE COURSE.

The second number of the Lyceum Course will be given Friday evening, December 9th, when Mr. Stephen Marion Reynolds, of Terre Haute, Ind., one of the most noted lecturers of America, will lecture on "The Tragedy and the Comedy of the Law." The lecture will be given at the Tabby Opera House at 8:15 o'clock.

Mr. Reynolds is a rare and fascinating combination. He is a poet and a dreamer, a wit and a philosopher, an agitator and a prophet. Above all he is an optimist, a lover of and worker for his fellow men.

With each new age comes a new demand. And each new demand provides its interpreter. The demand of the age is a New Democracy. This demand is world wide. Even from America's boasted Democracy comes the voice deep and clear, "Back to the Demos." This demand must be wisely heard and wisely considered. The French Revolution had its Robespierre and its LaFayette, the American Revolution its Patrick Henry and its George Washington, the American Rebellion its John Brown and its Abraham Lincoln, but in the New American Revolution there are a few men with these qualities of firing zeal and peaceful settlement combined in one soul. Of such is Stephen Marion Reynolds. Reynolds has the zeal of a John Brown and the calm and peace of a Walt Whitman.

The American Nation has heard the cry of the people and as of old they are trying to give the people their demands. Roosevelt tried, Bryan promised and Taft has said "God alone knows," but the People are yet astir and only the People can give the People the things they need. Stephen Marion Reynolds has a mission. He is eloquent, he is earnest. He is a lawyer—a graduate of Keystone Academy, Factoryville, Pa., four years; graduate of Lafayette College, Classical Course, Four years; of Ann Arbor Law School, two years. He has practiced at the Bar in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana. Is a close student of the philosophy of the laws of the country and its transitional needs. He is thoroughly prepared to utter words of understanding in these Days of Great Change and Progress.

SWINDLER

Caught a Number of Our Merchants and Made Good His Escape.

About six or eight months ago a young man going by the name of C. J. Stafford blew into our city, from where we are not able to say. His business was framing and enlarging pictures. He was about five feet five inches tall and well built in proportion. He wore high heel shoes, nose glasses, and would make first impression on you as being close kin to the feminine sex, but had the nerve of a prize-fighter, and constantly pushed himself forward.

About three or four months ago he got one of our local business men interested in a company which he organized as the Blue Grass Oil Painting & Frame Co. While connected with this company it is charged he drew out money for expense accounts which never existed and did other things of a similar nature. It is also alleged that he obtained money under false pretenses at other towns between Lexington and Huntington, W. Va. Two weeks ago he gave drafts on a Cincinnati firm (which never existed) to two of our business houses for $50 each for accounts owed them. He left town on the next train, and when the drafts were heard from Stafford was not to be found anywhere.

Warrants have been sworn out for his arrest and a reward of $50 offered. It has been reported several times that he had been located but each report proved false. The last report had it that he was in New York.
